

Client Testimonial

Personal finance and saving techniques have never been my strong point but it is something that has been niggling at the back of my mind for a long time. Planning for the future is easier said than done. When I first met Lavina and Ofra, there was no hard sell, no pushy tactics and certainly no pressure. Instead, we met every few weeks and chatted over coffee. They made me feel very at ease and we soon developed a friendship which then turned into a savings plan! Setting up my financial plan was simple and easy. They explained everything very clearly and never did I feel a lack of control over my money. I get regular friendly emails and phone calls and have built up a great relationship with both ladies as well as Horwath as a business partner. I would say to anyone who is a little unsure about what to do with investments and financial planning to give this duo a call. You won't be disappointed!
